Solving The Relationship Puzzle: Opening Doors to Friendship

Social Skills training is frequently used to help children in the Autism Spectrum improve their interactions with peers. Despite its widespread use, skills training has had limited success helping these children make emotional connections with others beyond their immediate family.

Dr. Gutstein will describe his treatment protocol which addresses relationship processing deficits in an easily understood manner. His creative methods have provided a path for emotional fulfillment for the thousands of children, adolescents and adults who might otherwise face an isolated future. Dr. Gutstein’s presentation is interactive. He uses slides and videotapes to illustrate principles of his work.

Steven Gutstein with his wife Rachelle are founders of the internationally known Connections Center for Relationship Development. Dr. Gutstein is the author of Autism/Aspergers: Solving the Relationship Puzzle. He has spent over twenty years as a professor, researcher and clinician, creating powerful tools for social and emotional growth.
