HEADLINES
- Beginning Fall 2006, Philadelphia University will offer a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering >>

NEWS BRIEFS
- Students, faculty and staff from the School of Business Full-Time Day MBA Program Visit Europe and Asia
- Elected by the voting body of the faculty, the following have been chosen to serve as committee chairs >>

IN THE NEWS
- Basketball senior guard Tayron Thomas recently featured in the Philadelphia Inquirer and Daily News >>

HATS OFF
- The Landscape Architecture Program has won the Schuylkill Action Network (SAN) Education Sector Source Water Protection Award. The SAN is a collaborative network of organizations working to reduce pollution levels in the Schuylkill River, which is the source of drinking water for over 1.5 million people in Southeastern Pennsylvania. The award recognizes educational leadership in the protection of sources of drinking water. Congratulations to the faculty and students involved in this project.
- Philadelphia University Alpha Chapter received the top awards -- First Place distinction in Oral Presentation and Written Report categories -- at the 2006 Phi Psi National Convention held at Auburn University. Congratulations to Eileen Roe, Alicia Betancourt, Sara Beth Kane and Eren Sozucetin. Faculty advisors were Dr. Brian George and Prof. Mark Sunderland.

SAVE THE DATE
- Enjoy a foreign film, attend a design reception or walk for a good cause >>

PHOTO OF THE WEEK
- Computer Information Systems Student Ekaterina Hartman ’06 decides on which frame to purchase for her diploma at this year's Grad Finale >>

WORD OF THE WEEK
- Activism (ak-ti-vi-zm) n. A doctrine or practice that emphasizes vigorous action, especially in support of or opposition to one side of a conservative issue >>

PLAYER OF THE WEEK
- Jenna Tursi
  Women’s Lacrosse >>

DesignPhiladelphia Lights Up the City Saturday, April 1 to Sunday, April 9